Trident nuclear deterrent: A general election issue?

On the first day of the sixth conference of P5 Nuclear Weapons States hosted by the UK in London on the 4th and 5th February, Dods has produced a briefing presenting the results of an exclusive poll of MPs on their view on the like-for-like replacement of the Trident nuclear deterrent.

The briefing looks at key findings including a breakdown of political parties' support for Trident, and shows how the nuclear deterrent could potentially become a general election issue with smaller parties such as the SNP, the Greens and Plaid Cymru opposing the renewal and leveraging it in potential coalition negotiations.
